Game Description of Casino Poker

Two players and the dealer compete in a game of draw poker in which 5 cards are dealt to each player and the dealer. The dealer's cards and the computer robot cards are face down and the player's are face up when it is the player's turn to bet.

Betting opens with the player to the dealer's left (right hand on the TV screen). Betting continues until all players, after the last bettor, have folded (withdrawn from the game) or passed. At that time each remaining player including the dealer draws up to three cards. Betting opens again with the player on the dealer's left and continues until all players, after the opening bettor, fold or pass. All the players' cards are then uncovered and the winning hand is indicated and the betting pot is transferred to the winning hand's bankroll. A new hand is then started.

On Your Mark

Do you think you can win at the Big Casino? Step up to the table and deal yourself into Draw Poker for some fast action. Don't let the dealer bluff you!

Take the Videocart™ and, with edge label facing you and top label facing up, insert it in the chute marked INSERT CARTRIDGE.

Get Set

Once the cartridge is in place, press the RESET button and cards are dealt out face down for the dealer and two players'.

Go

The computer waits about 10 seconds for keyboard selection of the number of human players. If no buttons are pushed, all three hands will be played by the computer and played continuously.

The Game

After button 1 through 3 is pressed, the cards are picked up and a new hand dealt. Bankrolls automatically set at $1,000 each. Each player then automatically antes $5. The betting pot containing $15 is displayed at the center of the screen. Each player's "the bet to you is" area is set to zero. The betting then starts with the player to the dealer's left.

Keyboard Player Selection:

Button 4 — No response

Betting

Computer robot players bet, call or fold automatically after a moment of hesitation.

Human players bet, call or fold by using their hand controllers.

How To Use The Hand Controllers To Bet:

Push forward — Fold from the hand.

Push right — Set a bet or raise amount up to $25.

Pull backward — If there is a bet to you, pull back to “see” that bet. If you have entered a bet, pull back to raise the other players by that bet amount.

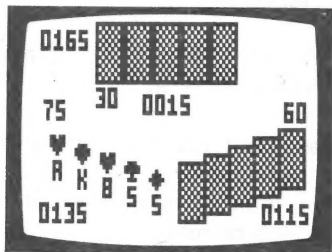

Example:

You want to bet $20 — Push right until your “the bet to you is” box is $20, then pull back.

You want to see a bet to you of $15 — Pull back to “see” (meet) the bet, then pull back again to call with zero bet.

You want to see a bet to you of $10 and raise $5 — Pull back to “see” the bet, then push right to count to $5, then pull back to raise $5.

You want to fold — Push forward.

After the betting round is complete, each remaining player draws up to three cards.

The computer robot players draw cards which automatically flash in sequence the number of cards they draw (the position of the card flashed is not necessarily the card drawn).

A flashing cursor is sequentially positioned on each face up card in the hand of the human player. The human player indicates whether he wants to keep or throw away that flashing card by moving the hand controller.

Drawing Hand Controller Action:

Push forward — discard

Pull back — keep card

After drawing, another betting round takes place after which the winner is declared.

The computer robot players bluff, go for one card straights and flushes and keep kickers. Computer robot players do not "look" at your cards and computerized house dealer deals honestly.

To start another hand, pull back either hand controller.
